Structure of the Kurdistan Parliament: Ensuring broad representation

There are 111 seats in the parliament (as stipulated by Law No. 1 passed in 1992). The Kurdistan Parliament is led by the Speaker, who is assisted in his duties by the Deputy Speaker.

In February 2009 several amendments were made to the Kurdistan election law to increase the inclusiveness of all groups. The minimum age of parliamentary candidates was lowered from 30 to 25. The legal minimum quota of female parliamentarians was increased from 25 percent to 30 percent of the legislature. While seats had already been reserved in previous elections for minority communities, for the Christian and Turkmen communities this was increased to five seats each.

History of the Kurdistan Parliament

The Kurdistan National Assembly was established in 1992, in the first free and fair elections ever held in the Kurdistan Region or in any part of Iraq.

To protect civilians from attacks by Iraqi military forces following the 1991 Gulf War, the US, UK and France initiated a no-fly zone above the 36th line of latitude which cuts across Kurdistan. On the ground, a security zone was established by military forces from eleven countries. These no-fly and security zones strongly supported and encouraged the return of refugees, including those who had left in the 1970s.

Later in 1991, Saddam Hussein withdrew his forces and his administration from parts of the Kurdistan Region. Compounding the hardship caused by an international UN embargo on Iraq, Saddam Hussein enforced an additional internal embargo on the region that stopped food and fuel supplies, disconnected electrical power and prevented the movement of people to other parts of the country.

Faced with the administrative vacuum and double embargo, the Kurdistan Front, an alliance of diverse political groups in the Kurdistan Region, decided to hold a general election. Their goal was to establish an administration to provide for essential public services and to meet the basic needs of the people. The population also expressed a strong desire to choose its representatives. The election, held on 19 May 1992, was the first free and fair parliamentary election in the history of Iraq. A minimum seven percent threshold was set for representation in the parliament. Voter turnout was very high and the elections were deemed to be free, fair, and democratic by international observers. After decades of dictatorship, the people in Kurdistan were able to vote for their representatives for the first time in their history.

This regional election led to the formation of the first Kurdistan National Assembly and the establishment of the Kurdistan Regional Government. The leadership and the people of the Kurdistan Region decided to adopt and abide by all Iraqi laws except for those that violated human and universal rights. By 15 July 1992, the Kurdistan National Assembly had convened. Law No. 1, the first law passed by the assembly, established the Assembly as the Region's legislature.

To date there have been four region-wide parliaments, following elections in 1992, 2005, 2009, and 2013. In 2009 the Kurdistan National Assembly was renamed the Kurdistan Parliament.

Parliamentary Elections

Elections for the Kurdistan Parliament are held at least every four calendar years, (as stipulated in Article 8 of the Kurdistan Electoral Law). The last parliamentary elections were held on 21 September 2013. Anyone aged 18 or over who is a citizen of the Kurdistan Region and is on the electoral registering is eligible to vote in a direct, universal and secret ballot.

Powers of the Parliament [1]

As provided in the federal constitution of Iraq, parliament has considerable power to debate and legislate on policy in a wide range of areas: health services, education and training, policing and security, the environment, natural resources, agriculture, housing, trade, industry and investment, social services and social affairs, transport and roads, culture and tourism, sport and leisure, and ancient monuments and historic buildings.

The Kurdistan Parliament shares legislative power with the federal authorities in the following areas, but priority is given to the Kurdistan Parliament's laws: customs, electric energy and its distribution, general planning, internal water resources.

In addition, under Article 121 of the Iraqi federal constitution the Kurdistan Parliament has the right to amend the application of Iraq-wide legislation that falls outside of the federal authorities' exclusive powers.

Parliament Terms

First Term (1992)

The Political Components and the Results of the Electoral Sessions of Kurdistan National Assembly

In Kurdistan, during the last sixteen years, two election sessions were held. The first election was accomplished democratically in accordance with the Law Number One enacted by Kurdistan Front on 19th of May 1992, and it was supervised by representatives of a number of foreign organizations: such as Human Rights Watch, Members of European Parliament and foreign journalists. Participants in the first elections amounted to 967229.

The Lists of the Participants

No.	The List of the Parties	Number of votes	Percentage
1	Kurdistan Democratic Party(KDP)	437889	45.5%
2	Patriotic Union Of Kurdistan(PUK)and Toilers' Party	423833	43.61%
3	Union(The Socialist Party and Kurdistan Independence Party)	24882	2.56%
4	Democratic Union of Kurdistan, the Communist Party and the Independents	21123	2.17%
5	Islamic List	49108	5.5%
6	Kurdistan Democratic People's Party	9903	1.02%
7	The Independent Democrats	501	0.05%
	Grand Total	971953	100%

According to the results of the elections, which were conducted on the basis of proportional system and announced by the High Supervisory Electoral Committee, only two lists namely: KDP and PUK & Toilers' Party attained the Parliament seats. Out of 105 Parliament seats, PUK and KDP gained the seats at a ratio of fifty-fifty. According to a decision enacted by Kurdistan Front on 8/4/1992, the other five seats were allotted for the Kurdistan Christians Union.

Due to the civil war, which arose on 2nd May, 1994, the Second Elections were not possible to be conducted; Kurdistan Parliament strived to block means of the acceleration of the civil conflicts. For this purpose, it issued its documentary manifesto, which consisted of 19 points against this war, and several field committees for monitoring the process of ceasefire and peace resolutions were implemented. Furthermore, 59 members held a sit-in throughout 101 days in one of the Parliament halls against civil war. This stand was widely supported both inside Kurdistan and abroad. Up to now, this hall is renowned as a (Sit-in Hall). Increasing internal obstinacy had an awful impact on Kurdistan's young experience of democracy. In conclusion, the Parliament became a victim of the civil conflict and its work was paralyzed for a long while. But owing to the Washington Peace Convention of 1998, attended by the Secretary of State, Mrs. Madeline Albright, and signed by Jalal Talabani and Massoud Barzani. The Kurdistan Parliament re-united again and on 4th October, 2002 two sessions were held: the first session was held in Parliament Hall and the second session was held in Sulaimania Palace Hotel a week later. Once the Parliament was united, numerous members of both groups were changed. Hence, the task of the Parliament was to promote political and peace process waged at uniting the two administrations in Kurdistan. Therefore, this session was called The Transitional Session and was chaired by Dr.Rouzh Noori Shaweis for three months and by Dr.Kamal Fuad for two months .Nevertheless, this Transitional Session, which is a continuation of the first session of the Kurdistan Parliament, enacted a number of laws and resolutions.

Second Term (2005)

The Second Session Elections of Kurdistan National Assembly-Iraq 2005

On 15th December, 2005, the Second Session Elections of Kurdistan National Assembly (KNA) were conducted in Kurdistan; this coincided with the elections of the Iraqi Parliament and the Governorate Councils all over Iraq. These were the first elections to be conducted in Kurdistan and Iraq after the collapse of Saddam's Regime.

In the 2005 Elections, the Kurdish people, unlike the rest of the Iraqis, voted for three lists. Only the residents of Erbil, Sulaimania and Dohuk governorates participated in the elections for the Kurdistan National Assembly. However the residents of the districts formerly controlled under Saddam's regime (Shangar and Sheikhan in Nineveh, Kirkuk Governorate, Khanaqeen in Diyalah and Makhmoor) were deprived of this right, as the legal and administrative status of these districts had not been determined as per Article 58 of TAL which, later was superseded by Article 140 in the Iraqi Constitution. The residents of these districts together with the residents of central and southern Iraq voted for the elections for the Iraqi Parliament and Governorate Councils only. Thirteen various lists participated in the Second Session Elections of the Kurdistan National Assembly based on the proportional representation system. 1 753 919 residents of the Kurdistan Region participated in these elections, this number included Kurds, Turkmans, Chaldeans, Assyrians, Muslim, Christians and Yazeedis.

The number of Parliament Members in this Session increased from 105 to 111. Only three lists succeeded in winning the Parliament membership from the above-mentioned; namely: Kurdistan National Democratic list with 104 members, Islamic Group of Iraqi Kurdistan won 6 seats and Kurdistan Toilers' Party with the Independents won only one seat.

Third Term (2009)

Third Parliament elections of the Kurdistan Region

Before June 4, 2009, the date for the Third Parliament elections of the Kurdistan Region, the President of the Second Parliament, H.E. Adnan Mufti, sent an official letter dated January 1, 2009, to the President of the Kurdistan Region that suggested holding the Third Parliament elections of the Kurdistan Region on May 19, 2009.

Official letters were sent on March 3, 2009, and March 26, 2009, to the Independent High Electoral Commission in Iraq IHEC in which the President of the Second Parliament of the Kurdistan Region suggested holding elections on May 19, 2009. He urged the Commission to set the date of elections in collaboration with the President of the Kurdistan Region.

After discussing the suggestion of the President of the Parliament with IHEC, the President of the Kurdistan Region sent an official letter dated March 11, 2009, to the President of the Kurdistan Parliament in which he stated that, due no special budget being allocated to IHEC by the federal government, the lack of clear financial plans, and insufficient technical capabilities, the Commission could not set the date for elections on May 19, 2009.

On May 2, 2009, IHEC informed the Kurdistan Region Presidency that after July 20, 2009, they would be ready to manage the elections, so the President of the Kurdistan Region attended the 9th Session in the fourth year of the Second Parliament on May 5th 2009 to address the MPs to set July 25, 2009, as the date to conduct elections for the Third Parliament of the Kurdistan Region. He also urged the Parliament to conduct elections for the President of the Kurdistan Region through a direct vote.

The Kurdistan Parliament elections were conducted successfully with the presence of observers from inside and outside Iraq. In this election 24 lists competed for 111 seats in the Parliament. Eleven lists won seats.

IHEC sent a copy of the endorsed results of the elections in an official letter, No. ھ /9/ 1431, dated August 18, 2009, to the Presidency of the Kurdistan Parliament, which are as follows:

Fourth Term (2013)

2013 election of Kurdistan parliament

before the end of the third term of Kurdistan parliament , Dr. Arsalan Bayez the president of Kurdistan parliament submitted a claim to the presidency of Kurdistan region on 5/12/2013 asking to fix a date for the elections of the fourth term the text of the letter is as follows : on the 7/9/2013 , the Kurdistan parliament ends its fourth years term and according to the second article of the presidency law No(1) of 2005 amended , the president of Kurdistan region has to issue a decree to call an election for the fourth term as referred to in above mentioned article .The higher independent commission for election should be notified in order to prepare itself for this election, which requires six months according to I.C.E.

So the president of the Kurdistan region issued an ordinance No: (50) on the 18/4/2014 fixing the 2/9/2013 for the election of the fourth term of Kurdistan parliament and the president of Kurdistan region together because both of them ended their term at the same date.

On 21/9/2013 the election was held and 31 lists participated, but only 17 of them could win.

The results of the election as announced and certified by I.C.E are as follows :
